

Important

30 responses is the minimum number of required responses for a school report.

In order to get a full school report 30+ responses are needed per question covered in the report. The breakdown of how this works is covered on pages 5-8.

Note: If pupils miss / do not answer some questions, even though 30+ responses as a whole for the school may be logged, it may not be possible to report on every metric and so a limited school report would be produced.

Due to Covid-19, the number was reduced to 25 responses.

A decision will be taken during each term as to whether to reduce this to 25 responses. If this applies, the cut-off will be 25 responses instead of 30 responses.

School report requirements

30+ responses

Full / limited school report

Ipsos MORI to send by email directly to the school the term after completion

More than 30 responses are needed per question covered in the report. If pupils miss / do not answer some questions, even though 30+ responses as a whole for the school may be logged, it may not be possible to report on every metric and so a limited school report would be produced. See pages 5-8 for more details.

Fewer than 30 responses

Small school report

Sport England to send by email directly to the school the term after completion

Applicable for schools who fall just short of 30 responses, including schools with very few pupils who find it harder to reach this threshold. A minimum of 10 responses are needed per question to present the data. Due to low response numbers, the data is presented as numbers rather than percentages.

Healthy Schools Rating Scheme

The Healthy Schools Rating Scheme (HSRS) score is based solely on responses to the teacher survey.

The HSRS certificate is only provided as part of a school report and therefore schools will only receive their rating if sufficient pupil responses are received to qualify for a school report.
